

ALL DRESSED UP

I want to wear my orange shirt,
The one with yellow patches.
"OK," says Mom, "and choose some pants,
But pick a pair that matches."

"All right," I say, and grab the plaid,
The purple and the blue.
I like this pair the very best,
Mom says she likes it too.

Now I need a pair of socks,
These will be just right.
The red ones with a touch of green,
I like them 'cause they're bright.

Now I'm dressed up, all decked out,
Looking good from head to toe,
I dash into the kitchen,
Just as Mom yells, "Time to go!"

Mom looks at me, and smiles,
She's so very proud.
Even though my choices,
Are just a little loud.

She straightens out my collar,
And I hear her gently say,
"You remind me of a rainbow,
On a rainy, rainy day."
