

You can use this last box to engage your students by creating the invitation and learning experiences that flow to the summative assessment while challenging, supporting, and allowing them to discover as much as possible in the unit.