

Research your family history, concentrating on one aspect of health. Compile the data and form one or more generalizations and recommendations regarding family trends.

Choose a non-fiction anatomy book. Then with a partner construct a journal of your trip through the body, describing all the sights and sounds you encounter.